Imagine what it is like to see the sea gradually overtaking your small home! For our friends in Kiribati, this happens regularly. With the increase in king tides and the rising sea levels, I - Kiribati people are trying to find ways of protecting their homes. They have requested that we find a carpenter/builder who can show them different techniques that may assist in protecting their homes from rising sea levels. In this role, you would be using your building skills and knowledge to both assist and train local people. What a fantastic opportunity to make a difference!
